

Prof. Dr. Frauke Jahn

Institut für Arbeit und Gesundheit der
Deutschen Gesetzlichen Unfallversicherung
(IAG)

Institute for Work and health of the German Social Accident Insurance

Working in all life cycle phase: safe, healthy and age-appropriate

Profil

Prof. Dr. Frauke Jahn studied psychology and graduated in engineering- Her first workstation was General Psychology at the TU Dresden. During this time, she qualified as a specialist for occupational safety. Since 2003, Dr. Jahn has worked at the Institute for Work and Health, first as a consultant, then as head of project management and marketing. Since 2010 she heads the research and consultancy department of the institute and is a member of the institute's management.

Research theme demography, evaluation of prevention measures, psychological stress, traffic safety, new teaching and learning methods in adult qualification

Publications

- Neue Wege bis 67 (<https://www.zeit-stiftung.de/f/pressdownload/03e01df625.pdf>)
- Hirndoping am Arbeitsplatz (<https://www.iga-info.de/veroeffentlichungen/igawegweiser-co/wegweiser-hirndoping/>)
- Horizontal Career Changes as an Alternative to Premature Exit From Work, International Journal of Occupational Safety and Ergonomics (2014) Nr. 1, S. 65-76

Professional environment

The Institute for Work and Health (IAG) is a facility of the German Social Accident Insurance (DGUV). The institute researches, advises, qualifies and informs on commissioned by the accident insurance institutions about safety and health at work.

Expertise

The IAG coordinates the topic of demography in the German Social Accident Insurance. The focus is on age-appropriate work and the retention of employability until the legal retirement age.

Vision

Safe and healthy work in all phases of life cycle. To create new ways to the statutory retirement age. To help shape the new workplace (demographics and digitization).