

Prof. Dr. Takashi Uemura Biography

Name: Prof. Dr. Takashi Uemura
Organization: The University of Tokyo
Profile Weblink: http://park.itc.u-tokyo.ac.jp/uemura/en/index.html
Takashi Uemura received his PhD under the supervision of Prof. Yoshiki Chujo at Department of Polymer Chemistry, Kyoto University in 2002. He then began his academic career as Assistant Professor (2002) and then Associate Professor (2010) at Department of Synthetic Chemistry and Biological Chemistry in Kyoto University. In 2018, he was promoted to Professor at The University of Tokyo. He was also a researcher of PRESTO program (2006–2010) and has been a research director for a CREST program (2013-current) of Japan Science and Technology Agency. In 2017, he was appointed as an Associate Editor of Chem. Lett, the Chemical Society of Japan (CSJ). During the last five years, he has delivered >90 invited lectures at conferences and symposia. He has been awarded several prizes, including Young Scholar Lecture Series, CSJ (2008), CSJ Award for Young Chemists (2010), Young Scientists' Prize, the Commendation for Science and Technology by the Minister of Education, Culture, Sports, Science, and Technology, Japan (2013), Kao Research Initiative Award (2014), and JSPS Prize (2016). His research interest focuses on the preparation of synergistic nanohybrids between coordination compounds and polymeric materials, in particular, polymer chemistry in confined nanospaces.

Awards and Scholarships:

February 2016

JSPS Prize

Japan Society for the Promotion of Science (JSPS)

June 2014

Kao Research Initiative Award

The Kao Foundation for Arts and Science

April 2013

The Commendation for Science and Technology

The Minister of Education, Culture, Sports, Science, and Technology, Japan

March 2010

CSJ Award for Young Chemists

The Chemical Society of Japan